Currently being used by millions of micro businesses across Pakistan in a matter of months, our customer centric approach has built trust with our users to help them digitise their businesses through technology. CreditBook is a digital ledger that tracks bookkeeping and credit collection. With over 2 million users and two mentions in the Forbes 30 Under 30 list this year, and backed by leading investors around the world (Tiger Global's & firstminute Capital's first investment in Pakistan, along with Quiet Capital and Better Tomorrow Ventures) we are just getting started! We are always looking for ambitious individuals to add to our team, from anywhere in the world. If the opportunities below resonate with you, and you want to be at a company that puts impact and customers first with operators that have had success in Pakistan and Europe, then continue to check out our roles below! Who are we looking for? We are looking for a Penetration Tester responsible for performing our web, mobile application and infrastructure penetration testing. You will also be responsible for security reviews and pen-testing execution as per defined standards and procedures from the Test Architect. We are looking for the sort of personality who thrives in a fast-moving, and dynamic environment. Must have a good understanding of (and is excited by) the challenges of scaling a tech company, including the need to move quickly, compromise for the sake of progress, and wear many hats when required. We hope you are creative and an out-of-the-box thinker who is willing to take risks as we are looking for someone to design, lead and elevate this area completely end to end! Responsibilities: Perform application and infrastructure penetration tests, as well as security reviews and social engineering tests for our product Perform security reviews of application designs, source code and deployments as required, covering all types of
